SULLIVAN TO TALK
ON 'THE CHOICE
AHEAD OF US' NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

To Give Impartial Report on Administration
Recovery Program

SULLIVAN HAS HONOR DEGREES

Awarded By Harvard and Brown For His Work on 'Our Times'

What may be regarded as a comprehensive appraisal of President Roosevelt's recovery program will be heard when Mark Sullivan lectures in the Shryock Auditorium Tuesday night. Mr. Sullivan, internationally known as an authority on American national politics, will discuss "The Choice Ahead of Us."

Periodically Mr. Sullivan makes trips about the country for the purpose of learning firsthand what people in different sections are thinking about.

He can be trusted to discuss the happenings of the nation's capital without fear or favor. In these stirring times it is doubly important that everybody be as well-informed as possible on important events and movements.

Aside from being an important figure as a Washington correspondent, Mr. Sullivan is the author of "Our Times" which for two years appeared in the lists of best-selling "Turn of the Century." The first volume of this series, appeared in 1932 and won for him immediate recognition as a significant and original writer in a field apart from journalism. Five volumes have appeared and a sixth is in publication.

For this work Brown University and Dartmouth College awarded him honorary degrees of Doctor of Literature, and Phi Beta Kappa made him an honorary member. The account in an hour of the nation's recent controversies of the 1930's has been incorporated into college textbooks and is considered by economists as among the soundest and most authoritative treatments of the subject ever written.

Because of Mr. Sullivan's wide exposure to the journalistic field which afforded him close contact with the public, he will doubtless have interesting ideas to present to his audience Tuesday night.

RARE BLACKBIRD ADDED TO MUSEUM

A fine specimen, an albino blackbird, has been brought in to the Museum by Dr. Mary M. Stenagill, of the University of Chicago. It was captured by a resident of the region of Wolf Lake. This bird is unusually interesting, being practically a complete albino except for small portions of the head and upper wing. This blackbird is what is known as a "yellow-headed black bird" and Fred Cogswell, assistant curator, states that it is the first bird of its kind known to have been found in Illinois.

A snake exhibit will be placed on exhibit in the east side of the Museum this week. Experiments conducted by Mr. Cagle with a large and small rattlesnake in which the fangs were removed from each, showed that it took eleven days for the large rattlesnake to grow eight fangs and the same amount of time for the growth of six fangs in the small snake. The fangs of snakes tend to wear and Fred Cogswell, assistant curator, states that it is the first time that it has been known to have been found in Illinois.

The Museum also has an extensive collection of reptiles. These are on exhibit in the west side of the room.

Professor-Politician T. V. Smith
Talks of His Own Books And of Red Propaganda at Chicago U.
State Senator and Philosophy Professor Defends
Professor Lovett in the Chicago
Investigation Case

By Virginia Spiller

Seated in a dimly lighted portion of the room, leaning back comfortably in his big chair and smoking cigarette after cigarette, the Honorable T. V. Smith, state senator in the Illinois legislature and professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, discoursed at length upon varied subjects at a tea last Tuesday evening at the apartment of Miss Frances Barbour. Books, poetry, philosophy, politics—drifted from one to the other in answer to questions or as his own fancy led him, adding a touch of humor now and then, but speaking seriously most of the time. Yet his expression left one with the faint suspicion that he might be somewhat amused at this admiring and wholly feminine audience; certainly he was conscious of the fact that his philosophical discourse was going entirely over the heads of some who were present. He was excellent in the fact that they could enter into the conversation intelligently. But for the benefit of even the most unsophisticated he dropped such gems of wisdom as, "We are unconscious of so much of our life that we miss much of the pleasure of it."

"Books! Oh, yes, I've written numbers of them. As to the one I think is best—the last one! Always the last one! The one I'm writing now is marvelous." The Senator launched into a discussion of the merits of his books like a glib book agent. "You would like that one—", or "You will want to read this—"

Smith now writing a book. Returning to the book he is now writing, "It is called 'The Ethics of Political Ideas.' It tries to tell the ethics of every country what his 'ism' is good for and what parts of it are bad. Of course," he added ruefully, "I don't expect them to read it. You know, I wrote only one book for money. That was 'Creative Skepticism—In Defense of the Liberal Temper.' I wrote it with popular appeal in mind. I had to raise money for my trip to Germany where I went last September to deliver a lecture in Prague with a distinguished defender of the Nazis. I sold that book and got the money, but do you know, in spite of all efforts to sell it, that poor publisher has sold only three hundred copies of that book to this day."

For a moment the conversation lagged, then someone brought up the subject of Red propaganda and the investigations of the schools. "Being of the University of Chicago, I was investigated," said Senator Smith. "There were very few students in the Communist organization on the campus before the investigation, but after that the membership undoubtedly increased. Of course the attack on the anti-Red centered on Professor Lovett at Chicago. He wasn't even in a department concerned with teaching anything bearing on the

Faculty-Written
Book Reviews To Be Released Next Week

The first of the series of book reviews written by S. I. T. C. faculty members will be published in several newspapers of southern Illinois, including the Egyptian, next Wednesday. These reviews will be written by members of the faculty and English departments on the latest writings on social science and literature. They will be on books of general interest which deal with such topics as the political trends, new developments in literary world, and current history.

Papers all over southern Illinois are carrying these reviews and more papers are expected to publish them as soon as they become an established feature. The release is through the college extension service, supervised by Professor Huguel M. Nolan.

subject, I can say that I know absolutely that no instructor is teaching Communism at Chicago. Lovett was attacked because of his extreme pacifism. That is the one thing that the legislators were never understood, and when they heard that many students would not fight even if the country were invaded, they looked on them as cowards and yellow dogs. Lovett got caught on the backwash of that. Of course that merely an opinion, but I personally am sure of it."

Anti-Red Agitation Damaging
Mr. Smith feels that the greatest damage done by the anti-Red agitation is the fact that it has "ramped" the style of teachers in local groups. He said that he had heard of an insubstantial effect and it gives a poor type of teacher."

With his sandy hair and friendly manner, Senator Smith looks more the part of the politician than the professor, yet the fact remains that this is his first term in the legislature. He is a professor of philosophy at Chicago. There is always opposition to any member of the teaching profession entering politics, but a professor of philosophy—

"Of course," said the Senator, "I teach mostly political and social philosophy. I wanted some practical experience. As a matter of fact, politics was my earliest ambition. From the time I was a child I wanted to be a politician. I don't know how I ever got to be a professor. As a boy I actually got into politics. I was called the 'king' in Chicago and had him put my name on the ballot. I wasn't really as simple as that, to be sure. I've worked in the Democratic campaign on national issues for years. It is to the governor that I owe most for putting me in. I'd better acknowledge it for goodness knows I've done little enough for him since. I haven't played politics in the popular sense of the word and I never will."

Doubtful As to Political Future
In view of the fact that Mr. Smith has been called a "king" in Chicago in the legislature it was natural for this question to come up: "Do you hope to remain in the legislature, or do you expect this to be your last term?"

After a moment's deliberation Senator Smith answered, "Yes." He said that he was somewhat inclined to agree with Cromwell when he said, "They go farther who know not where they go."

In spite of his declaration that he does not play politics and that he has no ambition to be a politician, he said, "Two of the most intelligent members of the legislature are women. I think women have a great future in politics!"

FSA CHECKS ARE DISTRIBUTED HERE

The first Federal Student Aid "payroll" was distributed to S. I. T. C. students Tuesday, November 5. The payroll totaled $2466, and 176 students received checks. Mrs. Wanda Gum is the supervisor of this youth program here.

The S. I. T. C. student aid workers include stenographers, clerical helpers, research assistants and workers in other lines.

Student aid is part-time employment at a set hourly rate, created under the NYA, a federal agency giving financial aid to worthy students otherwise unable to attend school.

Most of the FSA students are doing the required work and are making good grades. The grades of these students were turned in at the mid-term and almost all of the students were doing average and above average work.

BENNER URGES
SCHOOL FREEDOM AND EXPANSION IN ADDRESS HERE

Dean of U. Of I. Education
Dept. Talks On Citizen and the Schools

OPENS NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

Advocates Administrative Changes In Illinois Schools

Emphasizing the present need for a better curriculum, a better administration, and a greater freedom to improve Illinois schools, Dean T. E. Benner of the College of Education at the University of Illinois, lectured at a fair-aided audience at Shryock auditorium Monday night on the subject, "The Citizen and the Schools."

The Reverend Dr. Cameron Hammon, pastor of the Carbondale First Methodist church, spoke Monday morning during chapel on a program commemorating Armistice Day. Dean Benner's address marked the beginning of National Education Week observance here.

Dean Benner began his address by analyzing the pledge of allegiance to the flag and by concluding that liberty and justice are the priceless ingredients in our flag. "The measure of devotion to the flag is found," he explained, "in our devotion to the liberty and justice for which it stands. It is the basic duty of American schools to reveal to the children the great ideals which give sacredness and meaning to the flag, to provide them with the knowledge and the power to develop in them understanding through which alone as citizens they will be able to contribute to the sound democratic development of our American social, economic, and political life."

To succeed in this task, Dean Benner showed that it would require improved schools, curriculum, administration, and a greater freedom. He stressed the fact that many of our educational ideas of today are not dealing with the changing social order produced by the present economic upheaval. "The history taught today," he exemplified, "is one slighting social and political events of today; instead, dates are stressed. Education as taught today consists of the presentation of sudden facts and abstract ideas."

Emphasis on Need for Student Responsibility

In addition to revamping the curriculum to meet our school problems, the speaker told of the individual responsibility and ideals which must be developed in the student. He believed that the school has failed to develop these ideals of reflective thinking and purposeful action because they have not built into the children the emotional drive and strong feelings which will lead to an understanding of the practical problems of today. To instill this emotional force, Dean Benner again showed the necessity of a change in curriculum. He attacked the artificiality of the external form of subject matter and warned that there will be those who will oppose change with the charge of radicalism.

From the subject of curriculum change, the well-known educator next turned to the problem of school administration. He condemned the management of schools which makes capable teachers "rear the boards of education." "You should have a kind of school organization," he urged, "that will select good teachers and keep them. If such an administration could be obtained, the teachers could with more courage and professional statefulness go before the people as leaders in a new educational program. Led by teachers possessing the qualities of statesmanship, leadership, rich human understanding, and group spirit, they can reach the noble vision of heights expressed in the phrase, 'liberty and justice for all.'"

JACK STAULCUP'S
BAND WILL PLAY FOR HARVEST HOP

Eleven-Piece Orchestra
Copies Jan. Garber
Style; Adm. 50c

In order to make the Harvest Hop a success, the Sophomores have obtained Jack Staulcup and his eleven-piece orchestra to provide the music for their dance Friday night. Advertised as America's sweetest playing independently-booked band, the orchestra emphasizes the style of Jan Garber. The dance will be in the new gymnasium. All students are invited.

Last year, Staulcup's Orchestra played for the mid-winter prom at the University of Indiana. In the past they have filled engagements at the Hotel Peabody in Memphis, the Bangor Club in Jackson, Mississippi, and the Long Branch Club in Evansville. They were also heard every night over station WGBF Evansville. At present they are playing at the Casa Loma Ballroom in St. Louis.

The dance will be held in the girls' gymnasium, which is to be decorated in blue and silver. The gymnasium will represent a terraced garden with the orchestra seated on the side terrace. At the top of the terrace will be a massive red-orange moon which will have two evergreen trees silhouette against it. The walls will be blue with silver stars. The lighting effects are to be worked out with blue floodlights.

At each end of the gymnasium there will be an arch with a lantern hanging from the center. Shrubbery will be used to fill in the background. The dance programs will carry on the same color scheme of blue and silver. The background will be silver with blue printing and blue pencils. The floor, which is informal, will begin at nine. Tickets, costing 50c per couple, are to be purchased at the door.

OBELISK WILL SPONSOR CONTEST FOR COVER DESIGN

Obelisk pictures of juniors and seniors must be finished in two weeks. Freshmen, who have not taken them, may do so in this period. C. C. Grindie the photographer has been selected to take pictures of those who are working on the FSA but have not yet received their checks.

The cover of the new Obelisk is to be symbolic of college activities and college life. For further this and the Obelisk is sponsoring a contest in which an award for the best "all over" cover will be given. Eileen Brock, yearbook editor, announced today.

All students interested in this contest may get additional information from Miss Brock.

A detailed announcement concerning the contest will be made later.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

POSTPONED MEETING

The Commercial Club has postponed its meeting until December 13, on the account of the Kneisel-Alden-Turner trio concert here Thursday evening.

LITTLE THEATRE
SPONSORS PLAY
WRITING CONTEST

Any Student or Alumnus of S. I. T. C. Eligible to Compete

The Little Theatre is sponsoring a playwriting contest in which any student or alumnus of S. I. T. C. is eligible to compete. The prize will be $10, and the play selected will be produced by the members of the organization sometime during the winter term.

Rules governing entries are as follows:

1. The melodrama must be of sufficient length to provide a full evening's entertainment.
2. It must have an exciting, action-packed plot of the "blood and thunder" type.
3. All entries are due on or before January 16, 1936.
4. The society reserves the right to reject any entries.
5. Entries will be judged by a committee of three persons not connected with the college.

In the event more than one entry is selected, a second prize will be offered.

Society to See "Dadsworth"

The Little Theatre is planning to charter a bus and attend the play "Dadsworth," starring Walter Huston at the American Theatre at St. Louis during the week of December 5. Any student who is not a member of the society but who would like to attend may do so if there is room on the bus. The University High School Dramatic Club will be included in the party.

The program committee of Little Theatre met Friday afternoon and decided not to give a chapel program until sometime in January. The committee will meet again Friday. Little Theatre will not meet this week.

Egyptian To Open
Literary Column
To Contributions

For service to those students on the campus with literary or poetic bent, the Egyptian will next week start a literary column, to be composed entirely of student contributions. Poems or short essays will be accepted by the editor. No guarantee to print material submitted will be given, but absolute impartiality and the best judgment possible will be used in the considerations.

Contributions may be turned to the Egyptian office any time, but they must be in by Thursday evening to be considered for the next Wednesday's issue. Names must be signed to the writings, and will be printed.

Poems should be short—a limit of approximately thirty lines will be placed upon verse contributions. Prose should not be longer than 150 words. Any type of material may be submitted, but considerations will be on a literary basis entirely.

FIRST OF CO-OP
CONCERT SERIES
BRINGS ENSEMBLE
HERE TOMORROW

Kneisel-Alden - Turner
String Trio Program
Open to Students

CONCERT AT 8 p.m.
IN AUDITORIUM

Artists Have Received
Many Favorable
Press Reports

The famous Kneisel-Alden-Turner musical ensemble will present a concert in Shryock Auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The concert, which is the first of the series being sponsored by the Carbondale Co-operative Concert Association, is open to all members of the association and all S. I. T. C. students.

The ensemble is composed of Frank Kneisel, violinist, John Alden, cellist, and Robert Turner, pianist and is managed by Hansel and Jones, a New York musical booking agency. The program, which will include solos as well as group numbers, will be as follows:

I
Trio, Opus 70, No. 1—Beethoven.
Allegro vivace e con brio.
Largo assai ed espressivo.
Presto.

Kneisel-Alden-Turner

Intermezzo—Vivaldi.
Lullaby—Santamini.
Violace—Cyril Scott.
The Moth—John Alden.
John Alden, Robert Turner at the piano

II

Rondo—Hummel.
Ballade in A flat—Chopin.
Robert Turner
Intermezzo

III

Rondo—Mozart.
Maidy—Chick.
Dance espagnole—de Falla-Kreisler.
Frank Kneisel, Robert Turner at the piano.

According to advance publicity by the Columbia Concerts Corporation, one of the outstanding acts about Frank Kneisel, leader of the group, is that he has made a distinguished name for himself on his own merit. Few sons of great musicians who follow in their fathers' footsteps achieve this distinction. Frank Kneisel, the second of a great name, achieved modestly, but he has a practical New York audience at his debut and displayed a true genius which was acknowledged immediately by the public and critics alike.

In 1926 Frank Kneisel started his professional career. From the first, he showed a great talent. He has that famous musical spark which is recognized instantly and the perfect technique which is required nowadays of successful violinists. In addition, the breadth and depth of his musicianship is admired and he has the artistry of making a lyrical purity and charm of his personality. "Now Frank Kneisel is acclaimed everywhere as a violinist of first rank."

Leading newspapers have much to say of his ability. The Chicago Herald Examiner says, "He belongs to the aristocracy of music." The Boston Globe has, "Frank Kneisel's name should be added to the lamentably short list of concert violinists who are distinguished musicians as well as admirable fiddlers. Kreisler, Spalding, Szigeti may serve him as examples of the type to which he belongs."

Alden Studied in Washington
Further information on the trio states that, "John Alden as a boy in the nation's capital studied several instruments, including violin, piano and flute. Upon hearing a famous cellist and being greatly impressed by the beauty of the tones of the instrument he took up its study at once. After devoting several years to serious study in some of the most noted conservatories in the United States he started his professional" (Continued on page six)

EDUCATION REFORM, HERE AND ELSEWHERE

The reformation of education taking place at the present time is adequately explained to us by Francis A. Smith Jr. in a recent article in the National Student Mirror. As former editor of the Princetonian and president of the Association of College Editors, Mr. Smith has a well informed perspective on the subject.

The younger generation is demanding courses offered for study which are "tempered to the constantly changing conditions of life." Education has changed, is changing and improving. The present aim of education is to give a liberal training, the permeation into the mind of the student of social conscience and responsibility toward society.

Wealth is no longer the yard-stick for "suitability" as a companion. People are casting aside their prejudices of a coddled, prosperous age and are accepting facts with a more open mind. Education is developing people who are not impressed with catch-words and fashions who can criticize the past and plot the future— with independence of thought and action. Consequently it is no longer strange to find that classroom discussions are very often extremely animated, which is an encouraging sign. This has grown out of the democratizing effect of the late depression.

Similar evidences of a democratic freedom of this campus is also evident. Certainly S. I. T. C. advances with modern education. In his inaugural address President Pulliam said: "One of the aims of our education here is to prepare our people to meet change with caution and with foresight, but without chagrin," and that "successful living in the modern world calls for more and better education than we have ever had."

HE FILLED A BIG JOB

Seldom have men filled big jobs with as much ease and efficiency as has late head janitor of Main Building, Mr. William Henry Goddard. Serving for thirty years in what many might term a menial position, Mr. Goddard did all in his power to make life for S. I. T. C. students just a little easier, and just a little more comfortable.

Was the editor of the Egyptian wanted on the phone? Did one of the chairs in the Egyptian office give way under extra strain? Mr. Goddard was always ready to run errands, ready to aid, ready to fix. Literally hundreds of times did Mr. Goddard run up to the Egyptian office to call people who were wanted on the telephone.

No only to the people in the newspaper office was Mr. Goddard an aid, but to everyone. His familiar figure, stick in hand, will be missed, but not forgotten by all S. I. T. C. students and faculty.

Requester in pace.

REAL CHANCE FOR STUDENT ENTERTAINMENT

Two of the entertainment numbers to be given this year for the students will take place this week. Tomorrow night the Kneisel-Allen-Turner Trio, New York string ensemble, will play the first Torkette dance. Corporate Concert Association Series. Next Tuesday night Mark Sullivan, the first number on the S. I. T. C. Entertainment Series, will lecture on the subject, "The Choice Ahead Of Us." Both of these affairs will be presented at the Shryock Auditorium and students will be unmitted to both on their regular activity tickets.

With any financial problem removed, we can see no reason why students should voluntarily absent themselves from these entertainments. The String Ensemble will furnish an evening of worthwhile, well-played music, while Mark Sullivan's timely lecture will be enlightening, and interesting. Moreover, in addition to gaining a broader appreciation of good music and a better knowledge of current events, students by their attendance may express their gratitude for the efforts of the college to make their extra-curricular life here more interesting. The presence of most of the student body will belie the apathy rumor and can result in a more animated and enjoyable school life.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR NEW TENNIS COURTS

Now that S. I. T. C. is virtually assured of a permanent and beautiful stadium, it seems only proper to bring up the facilities for other sports to the level of football equipment.

The major sports of this college will be well housed with the stadium and football field, tennis and the modern gymnasium. Gym team activities are well provided for and baseball fields are being improved.

Tennis seems to be the only neglected branch of athletics here. This sport undoubtedly interests almost as many men as intramural baseball and certainly more than women work. With this great and still increasing interest in tennis, it seems that more adequate and more modern facilities should be supplied.

With the possibility of minor letters being awarded next spring and with winter practice being instituted this year, certainly enough interest is being shown to warrant some expense. If this school is to continue its tennis competition with other schools, more and better courts are necessary. The present four courts are too few in number as at least six are needed for a team match. Moreover, the present four have been in use for so long that they are completely worn out, are certainly not a source of pride to the school when other schools play here.

May we suggest as a possible solution for this need that some labor be transferred from the stadium project to build new tennis courts? If this suggestion is impractical, would it not be fair for the state to appropriate some athletic funds for the purpose of building these courts? It seems only fair to tennis devotees to furnish them with a modern place to exercise the skill they have acquired by their hard practice.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE TRENDS

National movements of college students in the United States tend toward a concerted attempt to improve logically and sanely the world of today, according to an article by James Wechsler in a recent issue of "The New Republic." Mr. Wechsler's article, entitled "Perment in the Colleges," tells of many of the various national campus organizations, their aims and social progress. These organizations are characterized and discussed in a very interesting and comprehensive fashion by the author. They are catalogued from left to right, or from the near-radical or vigorously progressive view to the very conservative stand.

One writer should know the general campus spirit, for he was editor of the Columbia Spectator last year.

In the cases of most of the nine organizations considered, the chief purposes were found to be an anti-war reaction and a positive assertion for national and universal social and political progress.

These purposes are being sought through means varying in intensity and application, but are certainly proved to be the real causes of organized American collegiate youth.

Some of the organizations discussed include the National Student League, the League for Industrial Democracy (L. I. D.), the National Student League, the Intercollegiate Organizations of America, and the Crusaders.

These groups run all the way from the extreme but sane left wingists, the L. I. D. (the S. I. T. C. Modern Problems Club is allied with this group), to the right wing of the college, the reactionary patriotic organization, the Crusaders. The former groups wouldn't mind a change here and there in America, while the latter believe in preserving American traditions and ideals to the utmost.

The article concludes with the general challenge, "The rah-rah boy is disappearing; but whether he will grow up into a full fledged insurgent with his eye on a better world or whether he will live up with the Hearstings to make the country safe for the better people is the real issue underlying the present ferment. It becomes increasingly evident that he will not, even if he could, remain an impartial witness."

In his foregoing comments, Mr. Wechsler had made it pretty clear that the effective majority have chosen, and will continue to choose, to lead in a real and practical improvement in the complex modern environment.

AN EXCELLENT STUDENT ADDRESS

Seldom do chapel addresses, and especially those by students on student programs, make one want to stand up and cheer. But Jean Saba, an interesting foreign-born young man, made one such talk last week.

Mr. Saba, talking on "War and Fascism," said: "There are in America today rats, and mice chewing the very roots of America culture and civilization. And what are those roots? The colleges."

Thus did Mr. Saba bring his speech to the point affecting his audience. To combat these attacks, he advocated organized student moves, such as a league against War and Fascism. He said that the very roots of the college world must be the ones to bring peace someday to the world.

In conclusion, Mr. Saba challenged the student body with the question: "Fascism and War must die or we die. It is up to us to say which."

Students at McKendree have quite a tradition with which to entertain glibly visitors. According to legend, the old chapel bell (which, by the way, is still used now and then) was brought to America by Chris Columbus, on his first voyage. As far as we know, no one has taken the trouble to check the authenticity of this tale. After all, it would be a shame to disillusion us and spoil a perfectly good story.

S. I. T. C. GOES LITERARY

Some one told the knowledge-starved underclassman that our library possesses an unexpurgated edition of Boccaccio's famous Decameron tales. The student freedomer immediately ordered the library in order to obtain this piece of resistance. The underclassman has been vainly trying to get their hands on it for nine weeks themselves, but they haven't had a chance.

Speaking of "Big Shots" — This Bobby Schwartz really rates — At least that's what we thought when we heard that he was not only elected president of his county student group but secretary and treasurer as well. Close investigation showed, however, that Bobby was the only representative from his county. In other words, he was the whole show, through necessity.

Why were the girls at 601 W. Mill so concerned about the street light in front of their house last week? It was out, wasn't it?

Just what county or group of counties met over at the Cafe to organize last week?

Glen Gregory had to walk home from Carverville last week. For details ask Lowell Davis or Grace Hall.

Statistics tell us that 10 per cent of the young ladies in New York are working girls. This is all very fine, but how about the other 90 per cent of the girls who are working men?

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Herman Yehling, the reserved gentleman from Du-Quoin, has at last shown his true colors. Beyond the shadow of a doubt, Herr Yehling has the choicest collection of puns, poems, and parodies in this neck of the woods. We are busy now editing his latest book, "Questionable Stories I Have Originated."

There is a rumor about that Browning you know, William (inivincible) Browning, has allowed his interests to stray in the direction of the little red book known as "Centennial." We wonder what would happen if a certain young lady from Michigan University heard this rumor?

If appearances are not deceiving, Charlie Tripp and Bob Kell would like to run competition to Browning. What's got into these Chenequa boys lately?

ANAMALIS FOBIUS

Onward turn onward
This is time to fly high
And make the bell ring
Just before I rectify.

"Aunt Mac," a columnist on at eastern newspaper, gives hints to the love lord, et cetera. Recently she received a letter asking if she would interpret a dream.

"Why, of course," said Aunt Mac. "I'm not a Freud" to interpret dreams."

During this season, we are inclined to think of the snow owl, who roasts we had in high school. Of course if one is a Freshman and joins either the Sorority or Chamber of Commerce he may still enjoy these carnal revels.

The unobtainable conglomeration of food that one consumes on one of these expeditions is truly amazing. One's feelings the day after are vaguely reminiscent of the old Neanderthal Man, who is described by Killings or someone:

"I ate the flesh of a whale that had died and strangled after months at sea. Now something's the matter with my inside. Surely the Gods have afflicted me."

CHESS CLUB HERE IS RE-ORGANIZED

Under the direction of Wendell Margrave, the Chess club is being reorganized and is arranging a program more elaborate than that of last winter. At least two tournaments will be held during the coming term.

The club will have regular meetings. At these meetings the program will consist of demonstrations of master chess games and simultaneous play.

Much interest was created last year in the tournaments that were held during the Winter term. Both a master and a novice tournament is planned for this year.

The club is organized not only for people who play chess, but also for those who wish to learn to play.

All students interested in joining this club should look for registration sheets at the Bulletin Board. All students are asked to register as soon as possible.

SOCRATIC MEN'S CHORUS TO SING AT SOCIETY TONIGHT

The Socratic Men's Chorus, organized and directed by Robert Furgerson, will sing for the first time before the Society tonight. The society now has the string ensemble, men's chorus, and men's quartet as its musical representatives. Thornton, Harold Green, will give solo numbers on part of tonight's program. Miss Boyd, a violinist, plays in the college orchestra as well as in the string ensemble. Mr. Green, the director of Roland Hayes club, will play a trombone solo. As a concluding number on the program, Phillip Whitehead will give a talk.

At the business meeting tonight, officers will be elected for the winter term.

"Poetry was written to be read aloud," said Mary Crawford in her talk on poetry before the society last week, "and it should appeal to all of us." After giving a brief discussion on poetry in general, Miss Crawford, a member of the English department, read a few selections from Keats, Wordsworth, and Longfellow.

Vernon Hixie organized six members of the 1934 variety teaming team and conducted a short exhibition, explaining the technique of each performance. Martina Earnsting gave a reading as the last number on the program.

Divisional System For Freshmen English To Be Used Next Term

The English department has decided to use the same divisional system for freshmen instruction next year during the winter term.

The "A" rhetoric students who have a high I. Q. and a flair for creative writing will be placed in this division. Miss Esther Power, who will teach the A class, will be the faculty member of the new class at the end of this term.

The B students will go to the B division and the C and D students to the C division. Those who fail to pass 101 will be required to take the "no-credit" course in Rhetoric in the summer.

English 300, a course in method composition, will be offered in the spring. This course is especially valuable for those who plan to teach Rhetoric in Junior or Senior high school.

A. A. U. W. Study Group Formed

Miss Gladys P. Williams, head of the Art department, has organized a new A. A. U. W. study group around the topic of Art in America. While spending some time in Washington, D. C. this summer, Miss Williams became impressed with the fact that Americans in general know very little about the art of their own country. At present the group has thirty-two members and meets in the library building twice monthly. This year their study will be confined to early American pottery, china, and tapestry. They hope to take up early American painting and painters. Miss Williams was formerly chairman of the education group of A. A. U. W.

GADSKIE TO SPEAK ON FIRST AID AT ZETETIC SOCIETY

R. E. Gadske, teacher of mathematics at Community High School, will give a talk on First Aid before the Zetetic Literary Society tonight at 7:30. Mr. Gadske has had much experience in First Aid, having given instruction in first aid to several groups, including the employees of the state highway department.

The Zetetic program for last week consisted of a reading, "The Sign of the Cross," by Marjorie Brown, and a talk on Francis Parkman by Dean G. D. Wham.

Dean Wham discussed Parkman as a literary man who wrote history. The society president, Susan Fry, appointed several committees. Anthony Venezon, Elizabeth Ross, and Marvin Bullock were appointed investigators and payment of dues. The committee to consider membership in the Red Cross consists of Ted Pinsky and Jerome Weber.

Miss Prior appointed Edward Mitchell, Kate Burkhardt, and Louise Purcell as members of the Zetetic Society of the Sorority Society to consider giving the annual society plays at the beginning of the spring term.

J. LESTER BUFORD WILL ADDRESS KAPPA PHI KAPPA

J. Lester Buford, who was initiated into Kappa Phi Kappa October 26, will address the organization at a dinner to be given tomorrow evening at the Student Union. Mr. Buford is a well-known author, Illinois educator and principal of the Johnston City High School.

Recently initiated members had charge of the program at the meeting last Thursday night. Merle Madson, John H. Madson, Charles Madson, Maurice Willis, Jerome Weber, and Charles Dintelman gave short discussions of questions of interest in the world of education.

University of Illinois Dean of Men Discusses Fraternity And Sorority Organizations

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES HAVE ADVANTAGES AND DISAD- VANTAGES, WRITES MR. TURNER

The following article was written for the Chicago Tribune by Fred H. Turner, Dean of Men at the University of Illinois. The reprint is from the Chicago Tribune:

College at a country school? Fraternalism, continuous social contact, dances, parties, formal costumes, sports clothes, sleek roadsters, mixed drinking, underslung bulldogs, jeweled pins, college scandal, and university intrigue. This is the conception of college fraternities and sororities which the masses have in their minds. The actual facts in popular magazines have given us. And, unfortunately, some people believe them.

The Greek letter fraternity system has grown up with American education, and a number of fraternities are over a hundred years of age. Some of the fraternities are over or near seventy-five years of age. In these years the plan of the American fraternity has changed considerably; the fraternity of fifty years ago would scarcely recognize its organization or the present conditions.

Expressed in simple terms, the Greek letter fraternity or sorority is a club made up of college students. Men join fraternities and girls affiliate with sororities. The individual organizations usually have a chapter house. Members are chosen and invited to join the various organizations, and each one has its own ritual. Pledges or prospective members are initiated when this ritual is read to them, and they subscribe to its aims and objectives.

The history of fraternities and sororities indicates that over the hundred years of their existence they have had a varied career. At the outset many colleges ruled against them. Then, as educators began to see the advantages of them, they were allowed to form chapters on various campus. At the present time there are not many colleges or universities which do not have them or organizations of similar character. They are strong and popular in the mid-west, the south, and the far west.

Students who are entering colleges and universities in the fall of 1935 will be confronted with the problem "Should I join a fraternity (or sorority)?" and if the answer is yes, "Which one?" They are likely to consider the criticisms which have arisen from time to time against Greek letter organizations. To consider the points for which they have been praised, and, finally, to consider the question in the light of present day situations.

Some of the most common objections to Greek letter organizations have been repeated many times. They are undemocratic and out of harmony with the democratic spirit which is desired in the true educational institutions. They tend to reduce class distinctions and the members are snobbish and look down on the non-fraternity, non-sorority, or independent students. They tend to destroy the individuality of the student and to restrict his participation in the particular organization. The rushing program of securing members interferes with the educational program.

Furthermore, the critics have said that fraternities produce an undesirable type of leader, who is more interested in activities and college politics than in educational standards. They are said to be expensive and the boy or girl with little money is automatically excluded. They are satisfied with mediocrity in scholarship. They are too extravagant in their programs, encourage too much social life, and overexpenditures for dress. They have been said to be hotbeds of immorality, with drinking, gambling, and general looseness prevailing. They have built expensive houses far too luxurious for the average student.

On the other hand, fraternities and sororities have been praised just as warmly as they have been criticized. The praise has come from members, from college and university officials, and from the knowing public.

In the first place the fraternity or sorority is a home away from home for its members, providing first class living quarters and good, well-balanced meals. It satisfies the gregarious instinct and the desire for individuality to live in a social atmosphere. It provides an opportunity for association with like minds; minds and personalities interested in a great variety of subjects. It offers an interchange of ideas under satisfactory conditions between students, with faculty men, and guests. It contributes to the development of high personal and group ideals, aids its members to engage in a sane social program, and encourages its members to participate in worthwhile extra-curricular activities. It leads in the propagation of college loyalty and spirit. It brings students back to the campus and aids in the maintenance of college loyalty after graduation. It encourages worthy membership in terms of high scholastic endeavor, wholesome habits, and good living. It provides a closer discipline upon its members than non-members may experience. There are some of the points mentioned by those who favor fraternities and sororities, and who believe in them thoroughly.

Generally speaking, college administrators have found that the fraternities and sororities are a definite aid in the educational program, and the groups of students in them provide an easy and desirable unit for administrative problems. In many cases, where colleges and universities have criticized and eliminated fraternities and sororities, the institution has provided a similar plan of its own which it wishes to control either in the form of small living units or units within dormitories.

Many of the criticisms of the past have been met by the Greek letter organizations of today. In my opinion, however, the fraternal movement of the present time is about as follows:

The financial condition of most chapters which have survived the past five years is safe and satisfactory, and showing constant improvement. The costs of living in a fraternity or sorority are slightly higher than outside, but the average cost is about the same, with the exception of the initiation fee. The chapter houses, while comfortable, clean and safe, cannot be described as luxurious; some built in 1928-30 are larger than they should be, but are well suited to their purpose. There is no undemocratic spirit apparent, and better feeling prevails at the present time between independent and organized students than has in many years.

The general attitude of fraternities and sororities toward scholarship is good. The average student in the past has been better than in the past. More attention is being paid to scholastic standings of prospective members than ever before, and many fraternities with the aid of college officials, are installing tutors or preceptors in their houses to aid in the study of their members. There is no average fraternity or sorority; they are probably better than in the average rooming house or dormitory.

There has been no indication of losses of individuality among members. In fact, the outstanding different personalities are sought and encouraged. Members of fraternities and sororities undoubtedly lead in extra-curricular activities; let a student show strength in this field and he is sought as a member immediately. The same is true for college politics.

National chapters, national officers and the National Intercollegiate conference have united with college and university officials who favor fraternities and sororities to make the best use of the organizations in the educational process. Membership in a fraternity or sorority is not essential to a happy and successful college career. Not all students desire to live in the "give-and-take" atmosphere of a group. But for those who desire it, it is available and may be very helpful. The student who is considering membership should ask the following questions:

1. Do I want to join such an organization?
2. Will my membership be mutually beneficial?
3. Is my budget such that I can join?
4. Have I found the organization which I am willing to live and

CROSS FIRE

By JASPER CROSS

Orchid-throwing isn't a particularly noble profession, but one officially seems to be due to "The Campus Cop," W. G. McCracken, without his aid at the Grand and Normal courts, more accidents and probably several fatalities would occur. A little more cooperation with "The Cop" would make his work much lighter and your safety much greater.

The recent squabble over "fraternity and sorority domination" seems to be merely a tempest in a teapot. Regardless of the original intent of "A Student" and the answers to his letter, the whole controversy has by late time degenerated into a mere exchange of personalities with the original aims (whatever they were) lost in a welter of mud-slinging.

College students will have an excellent opportunity to dispel much of the existing talk of "apathy" this month as the college opens its entertainment series here.

Surely college students have developed enough appreciation of the finer arts to enjoy such a program. The attendance at outstanding programs here has been disappointingly small. The price objection has been the usual excuse for non-attendance heretofore, but even this feeble excuse will disappear under the new plan by which activity tickets will be accepted.

Students will now have their best opportunity to quiet this talk of "apathy" by attendance at this performance. This opportunity rests with the students themselves, as does the success of the entire entertainment series.

A fine example of cooperation among college students was shown in the group meetings of students last week for the purpose of perfecting county organizations to work on the stadium project. An unusually good business like attitude had been developed and nominations were clearly and sensibly made. The students' attitude seems promising for the success of the financial plan and, if continued, should result in the raising of the necessary money.

A rather indicative political poll is being carried on by a new magazine, PULSE, edited by Albert J. Beveridge, Jr. The vote in the poll is about the same, with the exception of the initiation fee. The chapter houses, while comfortable, clean and safe, cannot be described as luxurious; some built in 1928-30 are larger than they should be, but are well suited to their purpose. There is no undemocratic spirit apparent, and better feeling prevails at the present time between independent and organized students than has in many years.

ADMINISTRATION ANNOUNCEMENT

Proposed Changes in Registration Procedure
Registration day for the winter quarter is Monday, December 2. The following changes in registration are to be tried out in order to speed up the process and to do away with the necessity of long lines of students.

1. Fees are to be paid on Monday and on such days in the preceding quarter as the Business Office shall designate.
2. Students are to be allowed to register before paying fees if they desire; in fact, the student is to be allowed to satisfy his registration requirements in any order. Class advisors at their discretion may assign students to classes prior to registration day. If this plan is to be followed in either of the upper classes, the advisor will make whatever arrangements are necessary with the students in his class.
3. Registration cards are to be checked by representatives of the Registrar's office in the four hours of the Auditorium. The Business Office will collect and number these cards when fees are paid.
4. The Business Office will give the student a fee or receipt card on the payment of his fees. This card will be used for admission to games and admissions to classes prior to registration day. If this plan is to be followed in either of the upper classes, the advisor will make whatever arrangements are necessary with the students in his class.
5. The School Physician will give examinations at stated hours during the last week of the preceding term as well as on registration day.
6. A penalty will be assessed for failure on the part of a student to take the physical examination, as well as for late payment of fees. Directory cards will be filled out at the assembly exercises on Wednesday. Students who have not filled out directory cards who have not turned in assignment cards to the Examiners by the close of the day on Wednesday following registration will be asked to pay an additional fifty cent late filing fee.

FINAL GRADES DUE FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 29
Final grades for the Fall Quarter should be in the office within forty-eight hours after the last examination, or by 1:30, Friday, November 29. Class instructors are expected to sign the students' Winter Quarter assignment cards on Tuesday, December 3.

FIELD TRIPPERS EAT LUNCH EARLY

Like a school of fish following their papa shark, a band of young Eats, led by Co-Eds, tramped noisily up the railroad tracks behind Dr. Barton on their geography 100 field trip. The baked-mud road beside the track was much smoother, but it was not near enough to the steep rocky side of Fountain Bluff for this gang of sight-seers.

Into the narrow valley in the rocks they swarmed, on up the valley to the path leading up, up to the heights above. Singlefile, they moved upwards, sliding, laughing, barking, back on long slick ground. Up the steep slope they went, gasping for breath, bemoaning their ill-fate for ever attempting such a foolish deed. At last! At last, the top is in view. The leaders urge them on, the vanguard hastens to see what those ahead are already observing.

The peak was unimposing, every straggled having finally straightened its way to the top. They looked around. Someone suddenly asked:

"What did we come up here for?"
The conductor grinned happily. To work up your appetite," he replied. He didn't know that most of the little fish had already bitten . . . into their lunch.

Saba Discusses Fascism on Junior Class Program

Speaking on the Junior chapel program Friday, Jean Saba, member of the Modern Problems Club, discussed the dangers of war and Fascism. He mentioned the Fascist movements alive in Europe and America and appealed to the students to regard Fascism as a vital problem.

Morris Haiderscheid, Junior president, presided during the exercises and introduced the speakers. In addition to Mr. Saba's talk, Jewel Medlin sang two popular songs, and a German band, led by Clyde Maddock, played several selections. At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Maddock led a few pep-yells.

S. I. T. C. Agriculture Club Hears Debate

The Agriculture Club met on Thursday evening, November 7, at 7:00 o'clock, with President Dale Hill presiding.

A very interesting program was prepared, including a talk on "Cattle and the Pasture" given by Alva Hoag and a debate on the question: Resolved, that horse power is more economical than tractor power. Those on the affirmative side were William Shuster, Robert Turner, and Robert Gray. On the negative side were Wayne Corbin, William Curry, and Clarence Logan.

An opinion of interest to agricultural students is contained in the following statement from the Extension Messenger published by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

"Unemployment is not a problem in the ranks of the 120 graduates in agriculture and home economics who went out from the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, last June, according to replies being received by Dean R. R. Huddelson. More than 90 percent of those who have replied to his inquiry have found either in farming or elsewhere, and the only ones still unemployed are 5 graduates in home economics. Since leaving school the 120 graduates have scattered to a dozen different states, and Argentina to start their careers.

Opportunities open to young men and women trained in agriculture and home economics are indicated by the fact that the remainder of the graduates are engaged in some 40 different lines of work. The range of work in which the agricultural graduates are engaged includes real-estate, oil conservation, meat packing, milk marketing, farm management, farm organization, and farm credit."

PUBLIC LIBRARY RECEIVES STATE APPROPRIATIONS

Books to Be Purchased
Will Include Choices
Of Students

The Carbondale Public Library board has received notice that an appropriation from the state to all tax-supported public libraries includes the local library.

The sum of $30,000 has been allotted to 200 libraries in the state for the period up to June, 1936, and the same amount for the next year. In addition, $10,000 has been allocated for the administration of the original fund. The amount each library receives is determined by the population of the community which the library serves.

With this fund the board intends to purchase a number of current volumes of fiction, biography, and reference, as well as to increase the stock of earlier publications. Books for both children and adults will be included in the selection.

Members of the faculty at S. I. T. C. have been asked to submit a list of books that college students would be especially interested in having the committee obtain. Since students may use the public library, cooperation at Wheeler Library can be avoided.

Any students who would like to see a particular volume purchased for the public library should see Dr. R. L. Beyer, Miss Florence King, Miss Ruby Kerley, or Mrs. T. B. F. Smith.

Machine Shop Class Builds Speed Lathe

Under the supervision of Professor L. C. Petersen, head of the industrial arts department, the machine shop class has just completed building a speed lathe.

Work on the project started last year when the class was drawing and making the patterns. After the patterns were cast in the rough, the parts were machined down, finished, fitted, and assembled by the various metal work classes.

This rather complicated machine is also known as a wood turning lathe.

Except for the casting, work on it was done entirely by students.

CAPE TAKES 2ND WIN OF SEASON FROM SOUTHERN MAROONS, 14-0

Southern Never Threatens In Uneventful Contest

30TH CAPE SCORES COME ON PASSES

njury Riddled Maroon Team Minus Services of Hill, Mondini

The Cape Graceland Indians chalked up an uneventful, 14-0 victory over a injury-riddled Southern crew last Friday afternoon at Cape. It was the Indians' second victory over the Maroons this season.

Paul and James Obermiller led the scoring in the first and third quarters, respectively, while James Barker made the point conversions on point placement.

Southern won the toss and chose a receive to start the game. On the first play Cape intercepted a Mason pass returning it to the S. I. C. 30 yard marker. The gain was utilized on the next play by a 15 and penalty for holding. The remainder of the quarter the Maroon were on their defensive in the shadow of a 15 yard punt. The play as heeding the Maroons 40 yard line, ever penetrating the Redskin jersey. The first quarter touchdown drive started from the 30 with Metcalf 5 yards. Roy Hall next and a hole for 16 yards, and Metcalf again for 10 yards. The drive ended in a double lateral reverse. Hall to Metcalf to Bonn, cleared the way for right end sweep to gain the first drive.

The remainder of the first half consisted of a punting duel ranging on the Maroon's 5 to the Indians 15. Five yards was the largest gain by either team.

In the third period, a snort play by the Cape safety man inaugurated a second touchdown advance. He gained for a fair catch and was given a 15 yard penalty when two Maroon fans tackled him. Four more yards including another long run by Hall left the ball on the 28 yard line. Another clever pass manipulation on annexed six points. Hall received the ball, threw a lateral to Jones, he passed to Obermiller for the first drive.

Southern unleashed a series of aerial bombs at the beginning of the second quarter. The attack was broken up in the interception of the fourth attempted pass. The remainder of the game took place in a punting duel.

Girls Soccer and Hockey Tournaments Now In Progress

The girls soccer tournament started Monday, October 4. Those entered are the Freshman-Upperclassmen team, and the Sophomore team. Helen Bates was elected captain of the Freshman and Upperclassmen. The Sophomores named Frances Sierkowski as their captain.

21 Teams in Table Tennis Tournament

Twenty-one teams have entered the S. I. T. C. table tennis doubles tournament, which started this week. One match was played in the second round, when Morgan and Mathis defeated Robertson and Weber. The tournament is a single-elimination drawing with Mathis and Morgan seeded first and Bastien and Wilson seeded second. The tournament will probably be finished this week or next.

WISCONSIN U'NOW OWNS TITLE TO ON WISCONSIN

"Madison, Wis., November 13.—One of the most famous college songs in America, will become the property of the University of Wisconsin for the first time since it was written more than 20 years ago until legal obstacles intervened.

Carl Beck, New York, former Wisconsin student, wrote the words for the song in 1909, and the music was written by W. T. Purdy. Purdy died in 1918.

Beck has declared that "On Wisconsin," called by Phi Kappa Psi, "the most stirring and beautiful college melody I have ever heard," will be given to the University in 1937, when the present copyright expires. The song was published by a Milwaukee music firm, and neither Beck nor Purdy ever profited materially from it.

LITTLE NINETEEN ON THE GRIDIRON

Two more of the leading contenders for the Little Nineteen title fell by the wayside as DeKalb Teachers and Old Normal suffered their first defeats of the year. The loss left only four undefeated eleven, those of McKendree, Knox, and Macomb. McKendree, however, has a tie to blench its record.

Of the four leaders, McKendree was the only one playing a conference opponent. The Bears defeated Old Normal its first loss, 6-0, for their third conference win. DeKalb Teachers were dropped from the unbeaten class by Illinois Wesleyan, 7-0, in a game played in a sea of mud.

Illinois College and Augustana each won second victory as against one defeat to move up to a challenging position. The Illinois College Blue boys downed North Central, 12-7, while Augustana knocked over Macomb Teachers.

Carthage won its second game of the season, defeating Bradley Tech, 24-14, while Wheaton won its first conference victory by handily beating its fifth consecutive loss, 12-0.

The other three non-victorious teams, Lake Forest, S. I. T. C., and Charleston, did not play conference games.

In non-conference games, the Little Nineteen broke even as they won three, lost three, and tied one. North Central smothered Beloit, 33-0, while Elmhurst fell short one point of equalling that score in downing Madison House of Chicago, 32-0. Lake Forest downed Albion, 15-0, for the third non-conference victory. On the debit side, Cox downed Knox, 13-7, Cape Girardeau Teachers bested Southern Teachers, 14-0, and Charleston defeated the Indiana Teachers, 12-0. St. Victor earned tie with St. Norberts of West DePue, Wis., 10-10.

MAROON COURT SEASON TO OPEN DECEMBER 6

First Game To Be Played Against Shurtieff At Alton

The S. I. T. C. basketball team opens its 1935-1936 season on Friday, December 6, when it meets Shurtieff College at Alton, according to the schedule recently issued by Coach William McAndrew.

Among the Maroons' opponents this season, will be found Centenary College, the only team to defeat the Maroons on their home floor last year.

S. I. T. C. also will play Olson's Portland, Sweden, a travelling team which the Maroons defeated decisively last season. The Maroon will face the Mexico City Y. M. C. A. team here on January 20. This team is from Old Mexico, and is making a tour through the United States.

The Maroons will play ten conference games, including contests with Illinois Wesleyan, Illinois College, DeKalb, and Charleston this season. The game with Illinois College here has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but will be settled in the near future.

Following is the S. I. T. C. schedule for 1935-1936:

December 6, Shurtieff—there.
December 10, Arkansas A. & M.—here.
December 13, Olson's Sweden—here.

January 6, Centenary—here.
January 10, Illinois Wesleyan—here.
January 11, Cape Girardeau—there.
January 17, DeKalb—here.

February 26, McKendree—there.
February 28, Oakland City (Ind.) College—here.

INTRAMURAL SPORT PROGRAM HERE COMPLETE

For the first time in years S. I. T. C. has introduced a full, well-rounded intramural activity program. The school sports program, consisted of only competitive varsity football, required physical education, and in the past few years, gymnastics. This year, Mr. Vincent Litovannova of the department of physical education undertook the responsibility of inaugurating a complete fall intramural schedule. This schedule includes baseball, ping-pong, tennis, boxing, wrestling, and gymnastics. The total number of students participating in these sports is two hundred and eight.

The sports are football, basketball, ping-pong, tennis, boxing, wrestling, and gymnastics. The total number of students participating in these sports is two hundred and eight.

This year the varsity tennis players will have indoor practice sessions in the gymnasium. Practices will start shortly after the beginning of the winter term.

Mr. Digiovanna hopes not only to continue the policy instituted this fall, but aims to increase the scope of activities so that the slogan "athletics for all" will be truly realized on this campus.

Varsity Basketball Men In Daily Drills

Every evening S. I. T. C.'s basketball hopefuls may be found working out under the direction of Gerald Veach, last year's star forward, who is now ineligible because he played baseball last summer in the Kluge League.

The squad is composed of several of last year's veterans besides many freshmen and several other varsity candidates. These men have been practicing for the last few weeks, and are gradually rounding into condition.

According to Coach Veach, the freshmen player has proved himself outstanding as yet, although several have made good showings.

Other potential basketball varsity members are on the football squad, and will not start practicing basketball until the football season is over.

Four football linemen and the coach of the Eastern Illinois Teachers gridiron machine are shown above. These four are among the members of the line and backfield. This is Coach Angus' first year as head coach of the Panthers.

DUNBARS TO OPEN BASKETBALL PLAY FRI. AT DU QUOIN

Stiff Daily Workouts Are Bringing Squad Into Condition

The Dunbar Society Basketball team will open its 1935-1936 season on Friday night, when they meet the Du Quoin colored independent team at Du Quoin.

Coach Leroy McBride has been putting his proteges through stiff workouts the past few days, and the squad is gradually rounding into condition. According to Coach McBride, his team will be as good as last year's Dunbar team.

The Dunbar Society had one of the best teams on the campus last season. They played a total of thirty-two games and lost only six. It was a strong contender for the intramural title last season, and probably will be a real title threat again this season.

Manager Peyton and Coach McBride are trying to schedule more games. They are rather handicapped in booking home games, since their schedule cannot conflict with the college varsity and University High School home games. Therefore, most of the games will be played away from home. Last Friday they were to play Oakdale, but the lightning system at the Galatia gymnasium was defective and the game was cancelled.

U. HIGH COACH PREDICTS 'FAIR' BASKETBALL TEAM

During the last week Coach Otis McMahon has been drilling the University High School basketball squad on basketball fundamentals emphasizing the handling of the ball under the basket.

Up until this time the team has scrimmaged only twice. When asked how the team was progressing, Coach McMahon said, "At present the squad looks a little ragged, but I expect the players to shape up into a fair team. I have noticed big changes in their attitude during practice and this will help a lot in their development."

When the Alto Pass team meets the University High School squad in the gymnasium in the Old Science building Tuesday the probable starting team will be Eugene Dillon, and Lindsey Gay at guards, Robert Sanders and Charles Eltherton, forwards and David McNeal at center. Coach McMahon also expects to use Earl Logan, a freshman, and Eugene McNeal in an endeavor to make a stronger five.

"Pea-Patch" Players Take Daily Football Scrimmage For Love of Grid Sport

Hillyard, Now on Varsity, and Nerone Star as Thirteen Men Stick Out Season's Play

By Glen Fulkerson

Every year some thirty S. I. T. C. football players who at first glance do not seem to be of varsity caliber are relegated to workout daily on the space adjoining the gridiron, known as the "pea-patch." At the end of the season scarcely a single team remains of the group, but the members of that eleven are distinguished by their efforts. These are the boys who play football for sheer love of the sport and not for the grandstand's acclaim and fans.

Arnie Wolfenbarger, star Southern athlete of four years' standing and 1935 graduate, is coaching the "pea-patchers" this season. Out of the September personnel of twenty-six enthusiasts, Coach Wolfenbarger has thinned the herd.

Wayne Smith, freshman from Harrisburg, holds down the left end position. He weighs 150 pounds. Smith was a three letterman in high school football.

Jimmy T. Biggs from Carbondale Community High, husky 200 pounder, ranging six feet, one inch, fills in as a tackle. He played on the conference champion eleven last year and was a valuable basketball man.

Pinckney Mitchell, another Chrisophlet, plays the pivot position. He earned awards for three successive years on the Christopher eleven. Joe Crane, Elkhart, has earned the position of right guard. This is his sophomore year at S. I. T. C., but his first in football. His weight hits the 170 pound mark. He was given five athletic awards for his work at Elkhart.

Wendell Starrick, a Johnston City product, weighing 163 pounds performs at right end. His performance as a receiver has made him a valuable member of the scrub eleven. Charles Heckel, Biggs' running mate, adds his 130 pounds to the right side of the line as a tackle. He hails from Carthage, where he played four years of football, and received honorable mention on the all-conference team.

Ward Hillard, who was promoted to the varsity after first being relegated to the pea-patch. He weighs only 140 pounds. Hillard starred in the last half of McKendree game with accurate passing and ball carrying.

As proof that Coach Wolfenbarger has worked the boys to a purpose, the "pea-patchers" scored on a varsity eleven in last Wednesday's scrimmage. They scored by the blocked punt route. Biggs coming outback, ruin the kick and recover the ball.

Upward of 18,000,000 people are playing basketball throughout the United States.

The Eastern Illinois Teachers of Charleston and the Southern Teachers will fight their private battle for the Little Nineteen cellar occupancy at Charleston Saturday afternoon. Neither team has won a conference game yet as the Maroons have lost three and tied one, while the Easterners have lost three.

The Panthers will have the advantage of having won a game this season and of having scored more points than the Maroon. Charleston knocked over Oakland City (Indiana) College, 19-6, to open its season and to gain the lone victory of the year. Thus far they have scored 34 points as against the 19 of the Southerners.

The scoring attack of the Panthers have hung up 65 points compared to the Maroon opponents' total of 101. On the basis of comparative scores the two teams should be about even since both eleven were defeated by Old Southern by the identical score of 13-0 in both games. The last battles resulted in touchdowns and defeat.

Both teams are weak in scoring power, unless the passing attack of Charleston or the hony backfield men of Southern begin to click.

Panthers Have Weight Edge

The weight advantage will be with Charleston, 274 to 270 1-11. The line and backfield averages will each differ by about two pounds to the men. The experience advantage will favor the Southerners, however, as the Panther eleven includes six sophomores and five freshmen, with no juniors and seniors.

The Charleston eleven will be playing under the direction of Winfield Angus, serving his first year as coach at Charleston. Angus succeeded Charles P. Lutz at the helm during this year and has done well with poor material. The Easterners will be attempting to average the 13-7 defeat handed them by Southern in their last Homecoming game here.

The Eastern eleven will be led by their rather unimpressive attack by Ed Units, flashy quarterback. Units, a freshman, is a better than average passer, punter, and brokenfield runner. The scoring attack of the Panthers is rather varied with all of the backfield participating.

The line is strongest at the end positions, where Walt Ritchie, Austin Ray, Cole, and Finch are outstanding. At center, with the co-captain Swickard filling the position.

Southern Chances Depend Upon Return of Crisples

The Maroons' success will depend largely on the return to service of the scrumline. This squad includes Mondini, Dale Hill, Moorman, Emery, Sam Hill, Morawski, Deason, and Broadway, all of whom are not in top form as a result of more or less serious injuries.

A new line has appeared in the Maroon backfield. The new line includes Mondini, Dale Hill, Moorman, Emery, Sam Hill, Morawski, Deason, and Broadway, all of whom are not in top form as a result of more or less serious injuries.

The line blocking injuries will be compounded of veterans led by co-captains Morawski and Emery. Replacements such as Hygon and Broadway, at ends and Kato at center will be available.

V. A. A. SPONSORS YELL CONTEST

In order to replenish the college alle the V. A. A. is sponsoring a yell contest. Yell name and dates of contributor should be placed in the gymnasium. There are three prizes, $1.50, $1.00 and fifty cents.

Rules for the contest follow:
1. Yells must be short and snappy.
2. Yells need not be original.
3. Decisions of judges will be considered final.
4. The contest is open to everyone except members of the V. A. A.
5. All yells must be in before Wednesday, November 20.

Benner Urges School Freedom

Special Legislative Session for School Legislation Possible

In the open forum which followed, Dean Benner, speaking as a member of the state advisory committee appointed by the governor to investigate necessary educational changes, expressed his belief that the governor would accept the recommendations of the committee and act upon them. He revealed that the governor had stated that a special session of the legislature can be called to deal with the present school situation as soon as the committee reports and as soon as the present session adjourns, which will probably be December 1. However, Dean Benner definitely stated that the report will not be completed by the first of the month. The nature of the report will be a recommendation for the organization of two bodies: a state body to serve as a continuous planning model for education, and eventually a county planning body for elementary and high school administration.

ADVANCED ORNITHOLOGY CLASS VISITS LAKES

The Advanced Ornithology class visited the Wolf and Horse Shoe Lake districts last week end. Horse Shoe Lake is a state game preserve, and no hunting is allowed there. It has taken the geese six years to discover the fact that they are free from danger in this region. This year, however, the district was well populated and class saw at least fifty thousand geese.

Large flocks of grain provide food for all the fowl. Most of the birds are Canadian geese, but there also are a few snow geese. Several hundred ducks, chiefly mallards, and a few Teals and Pin Tails are to be found on the preserve.

The keeper of the preserve shot a bald eagle just a few days ago because the bird was destroying the ducks and geese.

Armistice Day. "The purpose of Armistice Day," he said, "is to help us remember that the war was a dead loss. Nothing was gained, and the loss cannot be comprehended, reduced or described." Rev. Harmon told the student body that our heritage of today is the result of the sacrifices made by those of yesterday and that our task is to forward their work of achieving a better government.

The McDowell club sang preceding the address Monday night. The Armistice Day committee secured Dean Benner to speak on the program which opened National Education Week here and obtained Reverend Harmon for the morning Armistice Day observance. Its personnel consisted of Dr. B. W. Merwin, chairman, Gilbert Ebertson, post commander of the American Legion, Dr. Earl Matthews, American Legion representative, W. R. Hoffman, superintendent of Carverville High school; Captain William McAndrew, head of the S. I. T. U. Physical Education department, D. S. McIntosh, head of the S. I. T. C. Music department, W. C. Cline, superintendent of the S. I. T. C. Elementary Training schools; Russell M. Nolan, director of S. I. T. C. Extension Service, and A. D. Brubaker, representative of the Carbondale Business Men's Association.

SPORTS SLANTS

As we predicted last week, "Tailor" Broadway can do some good for the Southwestern team by his uncanny ability to drag a pass out of the sky. In the Cape game he caught three passes, although he played only a brief while. Many ends would consider that a good total for a day's work. And some ends do not catch that many in a season.

Last week, we were talking to Hillyard, freshman half-back, and he voiced his desire to get into some tough going. Hillyard started the game in Cape, and in the first quarter he made his charge. In the form of a hard-charging Indian back, and Hillyard gave him both barrels at the same time, with the result that time was taken out by both teams. After the administration of smelling salts, etc., Hillyard's only remark was to the effect that he had asked for it and was glad that he could "take it."

Coming back on the bus, Fox, veteran guard, removed his shoes, the better to enjoy comfort on the ride home. In the bus, Fox, who upon arriving home, he could find only one shoe! It is reported that the boys, at the instigation of "Platoons" Patterson, hid the shoe in the bus and told "Foxie" that Broadway must have taken it with him when he got off the bus at Cobden. (Incidentally Fox found the shoe in time to enjoy some of Chris's cooking!)

After the game Daney came into the dressing room and with a gleaming smile exclaimed, "Well, geese, we can't win them all."

It is reported that as Hillyard was helped from the field in a semi-conscious state, he asked if anyone had gotten the license number of the truck that hit him.

On the road to Cape, Percy Cruts exclaimed, "My, Geese, look at the ducks." No one was fooled by Percy except Travelsted, who, when the "ducks" were pointed out to him said, "Them ain't ducks—they're sparrows, Percy."

Many of the players were outstanding Friday from the standpoint of down-head plays. It showed up particularly when Southern was receiving punts and kicks. In several cases the ball carrier seemed to think that the smart thing for a ball-carrier to do was to hug tight into a big pile of players. It is a safe bet that they did it many more times when it wasn't noticeable. This is a fault that cannot be excused, since every football player is taught from the day of his first lesson to take the ball and pick a place where the opponents are not.

To offset the above, which may seem to be unjust criticism, it is only fair to mention the fine goal-line stand that Southern made in the first quarter.

Some of the men on the football team grew enthusiastic on the trip and told of playing basket ball in high school under rules that are at least old enough to make the tellers of tales and spinners of yarns thirty years old! My, but "Pat" and "Pop" and "Percy" carry their years well!

The tennis season ended with three freshmen fighting or supremacy in the sub-varsity tournament. Max Sakard, of Christopher, Jack Cox, of Carbondale, and Roger Chambers, of West Frankfort, will attempt to secure places on the varsity tennis teams next year. Their services should strengthen the S. I. T. C. tennis team considerably.

The S. I. T. C. football traveling squad is made up of thirty men, of these thirty men thirteen are freshmen, eight sophomores, three juniors, and four seniors. The four seniors that will be graduated are Co-captain Bill Morawski and Russell Emery, "Red" Moynihan and Ed Ghent. These four men will be missed considerably by Coach McAndrew hopes to find some good material out of the thirteen freshmen who are on this squad.

Because of injuries to several players Coach McAndrew had to stick to the high percentage play with the result that the men were not up to par condition. "Fuzz" Hill was kept out of the Cape game because of injuries.

In the second quarter, an Indian scooped up a fumble off the ground and dashed some 50 yards for a touchdown with half of the Maroons chasing him. The play was called back, however.

Tom North and "Buddy" Broadway gave nice performances in the game. North blocking and tackling well, Broadway snagging passes. McGuire, freshman back, played a major part of the game for the first time this season.

Morawski played his usual brilliant game at tackle, and collected several bruises while so doing.

S. I. T. C. made only three first and tens—two of them by passes.

Two Indian punts in the last stanza traveled for 30 and 13 yards, respectively.

Ghent punted for Southern as Mondoni was on the bench nursing an injured side.

If anyone is contemplating a course in philosophy, we would recommend an intensive study of the football gridiron. When all is going well, one hears a lot about the council of football men. But "Wiser" things "aren't" going so hot, the earthwilt hero is literally "the forgotten man" as far as his "public" is concerned. If he gets mentioned at all in the course of conversation, it is usually because someone wants to rake him over the coals.

This year we have a losing team. Thus far it has come in for a lot of criticism, but to the critics—a word. Did it ever occur to you cynics that the team is trying just as hard in defeat as in victory? Any man who goes out on the gridiron and takes it on the chin is worthy of the respect of the student body, and it is a test of real college loyalty to back your team in defeat as well as in time of triumph.

BOOK REVIEW

"Lucy Gayheart" By Willis Cathar
Alfred A. Knopf, New York, 1935

By ANTHONY VENEGONI

After an interval of several years, Willis Cathar, the author of "Death Comes for the Archbishop" and "Shadows on the Rock," brings forth a new novel, "Lucy Gayheart." A little below par so far as her other works are concerned, Miss Cathar's latest novel is a short, touching story.

Lucy Gayheart, the daughter of an eccentric and never successful German watch-maker, is one of the true lovers of life and of nature. An accomplished musician, Lucy Gayheart goes to Chicago where she becomes an accompanist for Clement Sebastian, a singer. Her love for life attracts the disheartened singer, and together Lucy and Clement find life—but only for a short time, leaving death as the only remaining possibility for Lucy.

Miss Cathar's style is, happily, never subject to fashions. Always clear, concise, and audibly, her writing tends toward easy reading. She is a little overly sentimental, perhaps, but that may be attributed to her being a woman. Miss Cathar writes only of people and places with which she is familiar and with which she has the deepest sympathy.

SENIOR SKETCHES

POLLY PETERSEN

Polly Petersen has trod the halls of learning quietly these four years. She is reserved, if not actually shy, but of such sweet and amiable disposition that even faculty members have been heard to make such remarks as, "I don't like blondes—except Polly Petersen."

This year she was chosen as secretary of the Senior class by a large majority. Miss Petersen serves as a model of poise and dignity, of serious industry and unostentatious friendliness after which a large number of students might well pattern themselves.

JOHN STANSFIELD

John Stansfield is undoubtedly one of the outstanding members of the Senior class. Gifted with a likable personality and a speaking ability that aways his hearers regardless of their previous opinions, he has made himself known to every person on the campus.

Mr. Stansfield has not gained all of his knowledge in schools. He has sampled various occupations from operating newspapers to managing soup kitchens. He has covered most of the United States in his various bunnings expeditions and gained the friendship of people in every walk of life.

On this campus Mr. Stansfield is known particularly for his speaking ability. No S. I. T. C. debate team of which he has been a member has ever lost a debate. The victory over St. Louis University is perhaps outstanding in this field. He was made a member of Mu Tau Pi fraternity in recognition of his journalistic ability.

Present Mr. Stansfield is president of Modern Problems club and is continuing in his efforts to establish world peace and better social and economic conditions in the United States. Every student may not agree with all of his ideas, but every student must like and admire him for his enthusiasm, intensity and courageous stand for what he believes to be right.

Important Mu Tau Pi Business Meeting

There will be an important business meeting of Mu Tau Pi tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Egyptian office. All connected with the society are requested to be present.

career in earnest. His warm tone, clear technique and poetic interpretation have won raptures for him and his frequent appearances with orchestra and in recital as well as in string quartets and trios, have built for him a place at the top of his profession in musical centers of America.

Robert Turner has been acclaimed in the United States as an outstanding American pianist. Making his debut in San Francisco, the pianist was recognized at once as possessing an extraordinary technique, splendid tone through a wide range of dynamics and interpretations which revealed the intelligent mastery of a high order—a verdict in which other important cities in the United States were quick to concur. As a recitalist, Turner's excellent musicianship, technique and personality have made him a favorite with audiences wherever he has played.

Kappa Delta Alpha fraternity will hold its fall formal November 22 in the old gymnasium. Headed by Vernon Reichman, fraternity secretary the Social Committee is making the arrangements. The gymnasium will be decorated, but as yet no orchestra has been engaged. The committee in charge of the dance consists of Vernon Reichman, chairman, Max Rea, Harold Biddle, Bob Hall, and William Arthur Suller.
